Course Description

Mindfulness is a practice increasingly making its way into schools. Mindfulness can be defined as “the awareness that arises through paying attention, on purpose, in the present moment, non-judgmentally” (Dr. Jon Kabat-Zinn). Cultivating mindful awareness through exercises of attention, noticing, and compassion has been shown to rewire our brains in ways that make us happier, calmer, and energized. Students who practice mindfulness are better able to regulate emotions, helping them contribute to a more positive and productive classroom experience.

Educators, mental health workers, and school leaders who enroll in this fully online graduate-level course will become equipped to establish and strengthen mindfulness programs in their schools. Participants will explore a variety of current school mindfulness and compassion-based programs that outline:

- frameworks and guidelines for school mindfulness
- dispositions of mindful educators
- fundamental mindfulness practices
- options for mindfulness-based curricula and programs
- roles and responsibilities of stakeholders
- strategies for increasing engagement and developing leadership
- suggestions for school-family partnerships

Whether you’re hoping to start a mindfulness club or aiming for a schoolwide implementation, this course will prepare you to launch a successful mindfulness program.

The course explores a secular, research-based approach to mindfulness. However, initial readings situate mindfulness in the context of Christian spirituality and theology. My hope is that you will find the course and associated activities inclusive and accessible to extend the benefits of mindfulness to all students and educators.

Course content draws on the CASEL (Collaborative for Academic, Social, and Emotional Learning) Framework for the following competencies:

- self-awareness
- self-management
- responsible decision making
- social awareness
- relationship skills

The course may be taken with or without students.

Note: The course text is included as a free digital download.

National Standards Addressed in This Course

National Board for Professional Teaching Standards (NBPTS)

(<http://www.nbpts.org/standards-five-core-propositions/>)

First published in 1989 and updated in 2016, What Teachers Should Know and Be Able to Do articulates the National Board's Five Core Propositions for teaching. The Five Core Propositions - comparable to medicine's Hippocratic Oath — set forth the profession's vision for accomplished teaching. Together, the propositions form the basis of all National Board Standards and the foundation for National Board Certification. Course assignments have been designed so students can demonstrate excellence against these professional teaching standards whenever possible.

- Proposition 1: Teachers are committed to students and their learning
- Proposition 2: Teachers know the subject they teach and how to teach those subjects to students
- Proposition 3: Teachers are responsible for managing and monitoring student learning
- Proposition 4: Teachers think systematically about their practice and learn from experience
- Proposition 5: Teachers are members of learning communities

CASEL (Collaborative for Academic, Social, and Emotional Learning) Framework (casel.org/fundamentals-of-sel/what-is-the-casel-framework/)

The 5 core SEL competencies:

1. Self-Awareness
2. Self-Management
3. Responsible Decision Making
4. Social Awareness
5. Relationship Skills

Common Core State Standards (CCSS) (www.corestandards.org)

The Common Core State Standards provide a consistent, clear understanding of what students are expected to learn, so teachers and parents know what they need to do to help them. The standards are designed to be robust and relevant to the real world, reflecting the knowledge and skills that our young people need for success in college and careers. With American students fully prepared for the future, our communities will be best positioned to compete successfully in the global economy.

Students are provided with instructor contact information in the event they want to make email or phone contact. In addition, students are encouraged to email or phone the instructor at any time. Students will also receive feedback on the required assignments as they are submitted.

Forums

Participation is an important expectation of this course and all online courses. Online forums promote reflection and analysis while allowing students to appreciate and evaluate positions that others express. Forum postings are open to be viewed by all students in the course, so do not post sensitive or personal information about your students. While students may not be engaging with the same students throughout this course, they will be expected to offer comments, questions, and replies to the forum questions whenever possible. The faculty role in the forums is that of an observer and facilitator.

Coursework Hours

Based on the Carnegie Unit standard, a unit of graduate credit measures academic credit based on the number of hours the student is engaged in learning. This includes all time spent on the course: reading the textbook, watching videos, listening to audio lessons, researching topics, writing papers, creating projects, developing lesson plans, posting to discussion boards, etc. Coursework offered for FPU Continuing Education graduate credit adheres to 45 hours per semester unit for the 900-level courses. Therefore, a student will spend approximately 135 hours on a typical 3-unit course.

Services for Students with Disabilities

Students with disabilities are eligible for reasonable accommodations in their academic work in all classes. In order to receive assistance, the student with a disability must provide the Academic Support Center with documentation, which describes the specific disability. The documentation must be from a qualified professional in the area of the disability (i.e. psychologist, physician or educational diagnostician). Once documentation is on file, arrangements for reasonable accommodations can be made. For more information and for downloadable forms, please go to <https://www.fresno.edu/departments/disability-access-education>.
