Course Description

Teachers recognize that equipping students with the necessary tools for writing well shapes students into strong and effective communicators. This practical and enriching skill will always be valued, no matter what career or vocational field students choose.

This course is designed to explore the writing process, as well as the types, styles, and mechanics of writing. The text provides useful strategies for managing a classroom of writing students and includes ready-to-use reproducible activities that reinforce the key elements of each lesson. By reading the text, responding to its ideas, and creating lesson plans for use in the classroom, teachers will explore how to teach writing more effectively, creatively, and efficiently.

Participants in this course will be asked to read and respond to the text. In addition, they will design and teach four lessons incorporating the concepts and strategies presented.

This course is designed to meet the objectives identified in the Common Core State Standards in Language Arts and the five core propositions of the National Board for Professional Teaching Standards. These national standards undergird the activities of the course. Students will be asked to make connections between their work and these standards or the standards of their own states.

Note: Required textbook must be acquired separately.

National Standards Addressed in This Course

National Board for Professional Teaching Standards (NBPTS)

(<http://www.nbpts.org/standards-five-core-propositions/>)

First published in 1989 and updated in 2016, What Teachers Should Know and Be Able to Do articulates the National Board's Five Core Propositions for teaching. The Five Core Propositions - comparable to medicine's Hippocratic Oath — set forth the profession's vision for accomplished teaching. Together, the propositions form the basis of all National Board Standards and the foundation for National Board Certification. Course assignments have been designed so students can demonstrate excellence against these professional teaching standards whenever possible.

- Proposition 1: Teachers are committed to students and their learning
- Proposition 2: Teachers know the subject they teach and how to teach those subjects to students
- Proposition 3: Teachers are responsible for managing and monitoring student learning
- Proposition 4: Teachers think systematically about their practice and learn from experience
- Proposition 5: Teachers are members of learning communities

Instructor/Student Contact Information

While this is an Independent Study course, collaboration between student and instructor is encouraged throughout the course. Upon registration, the instructor will initiate conversation with a welcome e-mail. Within this e-mail, the instructor will provide an overview of the course, material, assignments, and expectations for successful completion of the course. This initial interaction establishes a foundation for future interactions. At any point during the course, the instructor is available to provide feedback and support to students. At the completion of the course, the instructor will comment on the student's work and make suggestions, if needed.

Discussion Forums

Participation is an important expectation of this course and all online courses. Online discussions promote reflection and analysis while allowing students to appreciate and evaluate positions that others express. While students may not be engaging with the same students throughout this course they will be expected to offer comments, questions, and replies to the discussion question whenever possible. The faculty role in the discussion forum is that of an observer and facilitator.

Coursework Hours

Based on the Carnegie Unit standard, a unit of graduate credit measures academic credit based on the number of hours the student is engaged in learning. This includes all time spent on the course: reading the textbook, watching videos, listening to audio lessons, researching topics, writing papers, creating projects, developing lesson plans, posting to discussion boards, etc. Coursework offered for FPU Continuing Education graduate credit adheres to 45 hours per semester unit for the 900-level courses. Therefore, a student will spend approximately 135 hours on a typical 3-unit course.

Services for Students with Disabilities

Students with disabilities are eligible for reasonable accommodations in their academic work in all classes. In order to receive assistance, the student with a disability must provide the Academic Support Center with documentation, which describes the specific disability. The documentation must be from a qualified professional in the area of the disability (i.e. psychologist, physician or educational diagnostician). Once documentation is on file, arrangements for reasonable accommodations can be made. For more information and for downloadable forms, please go to <https://www.fresno.edu/departments/disability-access-education>.
