

Statement Analysis® Interviewing Techniques

Learn how to detect deception
in a verbal and written statement

Statement Analysis® is the process of examining a person's words to see if the subject is being truthful or deceptive. Even though people may lie and withhold information their words will betray them. There are several ways you can phrase a statement. People will always word their statement based on all their knowledge. Therefore, their statement may contain information they did not intend to share. People will give you more information than what they realize. The key to detecting deception is to listen to what people are saying and to know what to look for in their statement.

In this seminar, Mark McClish will share his techniques on how to analyze a verbal and written statement to detect deception. He will also provide insight on how to obtain additional information from a statement. By using excerpts from today's headlines, Mark gives a presentation that is current and unforgettable. After attending this seminar, you will begin to observe things in a verbal and written statement that you never noticed before.

MARK McCLISH

Mark was a Deputy United States Marshal for 24 years. From 1990 through 1999, he taught interviewing techniques at the U.S. Marshals Service Training Academy. During this time he conducted research on deceptive language and developed the Statement Analysis® techniques to determine if a person is lying. Since 1998, he has been giving presentations on his Statement Analysis techniques throughout the United States.

In 2009, Mark retired from the Marshals Service and started Advanced Interviewing Concepts. His company provides interviewing skills training and offers assistance in analyzing statements. Mark has appeared on numerous television and radio programs. He is the author of the books I Know You Are Lying and Don't Be Deceived.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND

This seminar is designed for anyone who wants to improve their interviewing skills. These techniques can be used in an investigation, when interviewing applicants, in a counseling session, when listening to a 911 call or when analyzing a written statement. This training is open to interviewers from all fields: law enforcement, loss prevention, HR, therapists, attorneys, etc.

THE TECHNIQUES

Statement Analysis® is the most accurate way of detecting deception. When you use nonverbal communication techniques you have to read or interpret someone's body language. This means there is always the chance of misinterpreting. With the Statement Analysis® techniques, you never have to interpret or guess. This is because people mean exactly what they say.
