This is my most current materials list with links to best suppliers

- A large water pot and a Dab pad (old flannel to dab the brush onto)
- White Kitchen towel
- Paper -

Hot pressed paper, 140lb, 200lb or 300lb in white (100% cotton is best as it has the most resilience) I use Fabriano Artístico (enhanced quality, look for the oval sticker) N.B the new make of Fabriano now has the watermark on two edges around the corner.

I prefer the underside or mat side of the Fabriano paper the underside of the blocks and the side where the watermark is readable.

I also love the Saunders Waterford hot pressed High white, I currently love the 16" x 20" blocks.

It's important you try a few papers to find the one that suits you best, buy one sheet or small blocks until you find the one you love.

I also sell and use A5 Bockingford hot pressed paper, its good every day paper. Use scraps to test your colours.

POSTING

I do post from my online store, <https://store.billyshowell.com/>

For EU Countries and those I am unable to post to, I am sorry but now you can buy my brush tools from the links above.

For my store I use Royal mail as it's the cheapest and best for me to use as a small business, sadly I cannot compete with most large store post prices.

The post and pack prices are the best I can achieve, all parcels are tracked unless 1st class stamp, some countries are slow to deliver to.

For tracked parcels, once it leaves the UK you can click on the 'continue tracking' to follow its journey in your country.

Please double check your address is correct and clear especially if you are using autofill.

I continue to endeavour to keep my product prices as low as possible, it is my promise to you.
